The Christmas of 2010 has passed and Christmas of 2011 is fast approaching. Between the Christmas of 2010 and the Christmas of 2011, three hundred and sixty five days will have passed. Throughout the year, how many will have truly followed God's truth?

As the tangible universe was/is a possession of God's, even Sherlock Holmes by reason of deduction could deduct that all subsequent intangibles in the universe would/could belong to God. Old adage: "Possession is nine tenths of the law." God, in creating, gave the world all the tangibles, and humanity in offering these gifts of gold, silver, printed money or binary book-entry profits is only offering what God originally gave the world. These tangibles and intangibles are not the gifts that God wants or needs.

By God's own design and as a result of all of God's gifts to humanity, the soul of a person is the only gift one can give to God.

America has long maintained that church and state must be separate, yet posted high above the podiums in the Senate and the House of Representatives are these words, "In God We Trust."

Excerpt(s) from the Declaration of Independence:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. — That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, — That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. — Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.”

“Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed,” here the people use Choice to elect.

“That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government...” I’ve written many times previously that there is not a fault of the government but of individuals within the government that have created the dissent by their unwise choices or failing to make a choice.

The Declaration of Independence recognizes the Creator; is it that some lawmakers in Washington have forgotten the inscription placed high for all to see? Let us not forget, Christmas comes once a year and in 2012 before Christmas will be the election that could change the United States’ future. How this country will proceed will be left to the Choice of each.

In God We Trust

In thyself, one must also trust

The Choice is yours
